Dear Sir/Madam,

I am an international student currently in my fourth (final) year in UWA doing Petroleum Engineering from Malaysia which resides in Brunei Darusalam. In all my years here as a student before reading your article, I did not know that Perth water condition is alarmingly bad as with most of my friends.

My thoughts about the draft plan would be to emphasize more about getting the information diversely spread across Perth through better advertisement or as a pre-requisite course for international student before entering colleges or universities. Educating is an economic and sensible way to reduce our water usage. Looking at the rate of migration to Perth in recent years would further carry its importance.

Finally with regards to the water forever draft plan I think is fantastic. I could not personally think of anything else other than the above to add to an already thorough draft. I am highly supportive of the water reduction, water recycling and developing new sources.

Sincerely,
Thomas Ding Kwong Wei,
4th Year student,
Petroleum engineering.
